

THE WHIG STANDARD.

"Flag of the free! thy folds shall fly,
The sign of hope and triumph high."

FOR PRESIDENT,
HENRY CLAY,
OF KENTUCKY.

WASHINGTON.

MONDAY EVENING, NOV. 20, 1843.

THE SOMERS MUTINEERS.

We are credibly informed that one of the mutineers who was brought home in double irons is now employed about the Treasury Department in this city. This promotion of villany is of a piece with the entire modus operandi of this parenthetical administration.

Does the Senate of the United States solemnly declare their want of faith, over and over again, in one J. W. Tyson, of Philadelphia—he is finally smuggled into an appointment over which they have no control.

Is Mr. Cushing thrice rejected for a Cabinet office—he receives $18,000 out of $40,000 appropriated with an express condition, which condition is violated that the Senate may be over-ruled. Is one Powell rejected by the Senate, and convicted of intimacy with Monroe Edwards, the forger—he still receives a reward in defiance of the Senate.

So of this fellow, brought home in irons, and barely escaping with his life, he is promoted to honorable employment at the very seat of the Government against which he was, but a short time before, concerned in a most damnable conspiracy.

How long will such outrages be tolerated? This elevation of the mutineer, very different from the one he deserved, is, we respect, in keeping with the whole conduct of this disgraceful and degraded Administration. Mr. Spencer and Tyler, in their appointments to office, show that vice hugs the image of its own deformity, and that in these degenerate days every kind of apostasy and baseness thrives.

LUTHER SEVERANCE, the newly elected Whig member from Maine, is another instance of the sort of men whom the Whigs delight to honor and advance. Mr. Severance has been for many years the editor of a stirring Whig paper in Augusta, called the Kennebec Journal—a paper which has uniformly been conducted with great good sense and vigor. We remember, while residing in Maine, to have heard it affirmed of Mr. S. that it was his practice to set up his "editorials" without the intervention of pen and paper. We presume that there are few presses in the country, perhaps none so well conducted, that can boast of such a labor-saving editor. With such wise selections for candidates the Whigs can not fail of success, and it is as important that the 29th Congress should be Whig, as that Mr. Clay should be elected President.

DISEASED POTATOES.—Some of the papers from the interior of New York and Pennsylvania, relate strange things about the potato crops in those regions. Farmers who have been in the practice of cultivating this crop largely in past years, have reaped small profit from it this season. In some districts, the entire crop has decayed in the ground; in some others, the crop has been harvested, and afterwards it decayed; again, some farmers would not gather the crop, so much was it injured by decay, but to make something of it, turned their hogs upon the potato fields, and the hogs, in many cases, were poisoned. In these parts there are great complaints of the quality of this esculent, and its defectiveness has been attributed to excess of moisture during the growing season; but we have heard of nothing like diseased potatoes. The potato belongs to the solanum order of plants, and some of them are highly poisonous, and others, again, like the tomato, are conducive to health. It seems queer to speak of diseased vegetables, yet such things are. Rye, which is a nutritious grain, and often used for bread, is subject to a disease which produces ergot, or spurred rye as it is commonly called, and this is an active poison. We might enumerate others; but it would extend to too great length, a notice which we only give by way of friendly caution to those who use this commonly excellent vegetable.

Destruction of the Receiving Ship Hudson.—We learn from the Brooklyn Eagle that a fire broke out yesterday morning, between 10 and 11 o'clock, on board the receiving ship Hudson, which damaged her so much that she is considered useless.

The Charleston Patriot states that two steam schooners arrived there on the morning of the 14th from Norfolk, on their way to Mobile, which were impelled by Ericson's screw, and completely rigged as fore and aft schooners; so that they can be managed either by steam or sails. They are intended to ply between Mobile and New Orleans as freight boats. Their engines are about thirty horse power, and in a calm, will drive them at the rate of eight miles per hour.

WHIG BANNER.

The committee appointed in Baltimore to prepare a banner as the prize of the State which sends the largest delegation to the Young Men's Convention of Ratification, wrote to Mr. CLAY by their chairman, Mr. Fahnestock, requesting that the staff for this banner might be cut by him from his own land.

MR. CLAY'S REPLY.

ASHLAND, Nov. 10, 1843.
Dear Sir: I duly received your favor, as chairman of the Whig Banner Committee of Baltimore, requesting a staff to be cut by my hands at this place, for the elevation of the banner to be presented in behalf of the Whigs of Baltimore to such State delegation to the Young Men's Whig Convention of Ratification as shall have the largest proportionate number of delegates in attendance.

I shall take great pleasure in complying with this request. A stick of white or blue ash (the best description of timber, I think, of all the kinds which grow in our forests) has been already cut, and is in progress of preparation for the Staff. When completed, I will forward it through such channel as will ensure its safe arrival.

The conception of the plan of a Young Men's Convention, to ratify the nominations previously made by the Whig National Convention, was very fortunate, and it will be productive of the best effects. Nor could any place be more suitable, for the assembling of such a convention, than the Monumental City, which covered itself with glory during the last war, and has recently again won imperishable laurels. Long may they continue to grace its patriotic brow. Your faithful friend and obedient servant,
LEVI FAHNSTOCK, Esq. H. CLAY.

SIGNAL WHIG TRIUMPH IN MAINE.

An election was held on Monday in the four districts of Maine which failed to make choice of Members of Congress at the State election in September. The result is most cheering.

In the Third (Kennebec and Franklin) district, Luther Severance, editor of the Kennebec Journal, and one of the best Whigs living, is elected by nearly 1,000 majority. (He failed by over 200 in September.) Thirteen towns in Kennebec give the following result:

	Sept.	Nov.
L. Severance, Whig	2784	2476
Wells, Loco	1776	1089
May, Abolitionist	465	182
Scattering	47	10

Severance over all 495 1195
Clear Whig gain 700.

Further returns received at Augusta increase the Whig gain to 742. Not a doubt of Severance's election.

But the most astounding result is that in the Lincoln and Oxford (surnamed the "Comet") district. Forty-three towns, which in September gave 1848 majority against Morse, the Whig candidate, now give 157 in his favor, a Whig gain of 2,015! The vote stands 3,211 Whig, 2,351 Loco, 173 Abolition, 530 Scattering. The remaining 16 towns gave in September 436 Whig, 837 Loco, 831 Scattering. Morse must have gained over 300 to be elected, which we can hardly hope for; but there can be no doubt that he now leads the poll in this hitherto strongly Loco-foco district! Our friends write that Maine is coming for HARRY CLAY.

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION.

This morning's mail brings but little additional news to that we have already received.

Chatham has been heard from on the vote of Governor making the vote to stand now for Briggs 57,419, Morton 53,172, Seat. 8,870.

Florida, in Berkshire county, alone remains to be heard from.

Senate.—The Atlas says that the Locos have not elected more than four Senators, and probably not more than the three from Bristol county. Florida, in Berkshire, will decide the Senators from that county. As it now stands it is nearly certain there will be no choice.

Representatives.—We give the summary which makes the House stand, Whigs 173, Loco-foco 119, no choice 115—leaving a Whig maj. of 54.

The changes are all in favor of the Whigs. Massachusetts will certainly have a Whig House and of consequence a Whig Senate.

From Havana and Mexico.—The steamship Neptune, Captain Rollins, arrived last evening, bringing dates from Havana to the 4th instant, inclusive. The U. S. brig of war Somers, J. W. West, commander, arrived at Havana on the 31st ultimo, with ten of the passengers of the barque Windsor, which vessel, bound from Boston to Havana, was wrecked on the 28th ultimo, about a mile east of Jaruco. The captain and crew of the Windsor remained with the wreck in order, if possible, to save the cargo. The U. S. war sloop Falmouth, Joshua R. Sands, Esq., commanding, last from Boston, arrived at Havana on the 28th ultimo.

The political affairs of Cuba present nothing new.

By this arrival we have dates from Mexico a few days later than heretofore received. The Yucatan commissioners had left for home without accomplishing any thing. Santa Anna had left the capital for his residence near Vera Cruz. He was accompanied about half the distance by his cabinet. General Manuel Rincon had been appointed Governor General of the Department of Mexico, in place of General Caralizo, who became President ad interim of the Republic.

The prohibition heretofore existing in Mexico against the entrance into the Republic of Spanish priests has been removed by a late decree of Santa Anna; and they are now allowed, with some slight restrictions, to exercise the functions of their office on the same footing as the native clergy. — N. O. Bulletin.

Men do not on this world, as if they were never to have an end, and neglect the next as if it were never to have a beginning.

Histories make men wise; poets witty; the mathematics subtle; natural philosophy, deep; morals, grave; logic and rhetoric, able to contend.

A Clever Reply.—A servant girl in the town of A—, whose beauty formed a matter of general admiration and discussion, in passing a group of officers in the street, heard one of them exclaim to his fellows—
"By heaven, she's painted!"
"Yes, sir, and by heaven only," she very quietly replied, turning round.

The officer acknowledged the force of the rebuke, and apologized.

EDITOR'S CORRESPONDENCE.

GEORGETOWN, Nov. 20, 1843.

Were you aware, that the democracy of this town, in council assembled, had determined to invite Dr. Duncan to partake of a public dinner? Such, sir, is the fact. And such a meeting, and such a party, was well worthy of the person for whose service it was intended. The party, rank and file, numbered thirty-five persons; one from Alexandria, formerly a member of the Legislature, and two from your city. One, a democratic candidate for postmaster of the House—the other, upon whose election as doorkeeper to the House, "the perpetuity of our institutions depend!" and who likewise distinguished himself in the late Florida campaign at the battle of the Wahoo! and who brought with him to this city a knife, taken in single combat from a celebrated chief in said battle!—so says the history, and history never lies. These were the distinguished men of the evening. There were one or two renegade whigs among the party present; and one, the secretary, looked as if he had been caught in some mean act; so unceasingly did he sit in his post of honor. After resolutions were passed, asking the Doctor to partake of a dinner, liquor included, the speaking commenced. Mr. Ratcliffe, the delegate from Alexandria, gave his opinion of Whigs, coons, log cabins, &c.; which did not amount to much. In conclusion, he told his friends to beware of divisions in their ranks, as it was by that alone the Whigs would succeed. Mr. J. B. Wilson next held forth, to the no small delight of the democracy, and among other things, said he had no doubt but the election of '40 was carried by means of British gold! In this opinion he was borne out by the renegade secretary, who rose from his seat, and said, "I have not the least doubt of it." (Great applause from the democracy.) He proceeded: "Mr. president, who ever, on the eve of a presidential contest, saw an English ship enter an American port with a flag flying from her mast head, bearing this inscription—'England expects every man to do his duty'?" I have no doubt, sir, but what she comes freighted with English gold, from the holders of American funds in Europe, to aid the Whigs in carrying on the contest of '44!" "I have not the least doubt," says his echo, the secretary; and the way the demys shouted and hurrahs, was a caution to coons! Here there was a chance for the shirtless democracy to handle a few of the yellow-boys. And as if to make sure, the secretary has gone to New York, to see if there is any chance for his friends; and has been authorized to make a sale of the party assembled on as good terms as possible. When he returns and reports, I will let you know the result. The hero of Wahoo was next called for, who declined; saying that he was no orator. A motion was then made to form a democratic association, when Wahoo rose and said—"Mr. President, I am in favor of a district association, where the democracy can meet and interchange opinions. Some are orators, and some are writers; but, sir, my great forte is with the pen!" At this moment, a long whistle was heard, as much as to say, "Wahoo, you tell a lie." The meeting then adjourned, with three cheers for democracy.

Would you be so good, as to publish the Doctor's abolition letter, for the benefit of his particular friends in this place? More anon.
REGLA.
Note.—We would cheerfully comply with our correspondent's request, if we knew where to lay hands on the Doctor's letter; in fact, we intended to have published it when noticing this "great meeting" the other day. We will try to find it.
Chinese Dandy.—The following description of a Chinese exquisite is from a new work on China, by P. Dobel, formerly Russian Consul to China, and a resident in that country for seven years:
"His dress is composed of Crapes and silks, of great price; his feet is covered with high heeled boots of the most beautiful Nankin satin, and his legs are encased in gaiters, richly embroidered and reaching to the knee. Add to this an acorn-shaped cap of the latest taste, an elegant pipe richly ornamented, in which burns the purest tobacco of the Fokien; an English watch, a toothpick suspended to a button by a string of pearls; a Nankin fan, exhaling the perfume of the tobacco, a Chinese flower, and you will have an exact idea of a fashionable Chinese dandy who, like dandies of all times and of all countries, is seriously occupied with trifles. He belongs either to the Quail Club or the Cricket Club. Like the ancient Romans, the Chinese trade in quails, quarrelsome birds, intrepid duellists, whose combats form the subject of senseless wagers. In imitation of the rich, the poorer Chinese place at the bottom of an earthen basin, two field crickets. These insects they excite and provoke until they grow angry, attack each other, and the narrow field of battle is soon strewn with their claws, antennae, and corslets. There is between the Chinese and the old Romans all the difference that there is between the combats of the crickets, and the terrible combats of the gladiators."

WHEN WILL THE PUBLIC CEASE TO BE HUMBUGGED?—P. W. BROWNING, Merchant Tailor, in opposition to all humbuggers, most respectfully requests members of Congress and strangers visiting the city, not to purchase their clothing before calling to examine his large and superior stock of French and English Cloths, Cassimeres, and Vestings of the latest styles; as he is prepared to prove to them, that he is selling the same article of clothing from 20 to 25 per cent. cheaper than certain dry goods storekeepers that wish to take the trade out of the tailors' hands by holding out false pretences to the public, that they are selling suits of clothes from $10 to $20 cheaper than they can be purchased elsewhere. I want to know how it is possible for any set of men that have no practical knowledge of the business, to sell clothes cheaper than practical tailors—men that know no more about making coats than they know about laying brick—notwithstanding all their arrangements with the celebrated tailors to cut and make their clothes, and their great facilities for buying goods, unless they have a facility for buying without paying for them? I am determined to undersell them, and not to sacrifice my trade to such an avaricious set of men until the last dollar is gone! All I ask is for you to call and examine for yourself.
A SHORT LIST OF PRICES.
Dress coats, good wool-dyed black, $15
Do do super 18
Do do a beautiful article, French or English, 20
Beautiful Cloth Coats, 20
The above goods will be found ready made, or, if preferred, he will make to order at the same price every article, in proportion with the above prices, to complete a gentleman's wardrobe.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Capitol of this morning was issued in a half sheet, and the publishers state that the rest of their impression was maliciously thrown down by a printer formerly employed at that office. The person who would be guilty of such a wanton outrage ranks but little below the incendiary.

New publications.—We acknowledge the receipt, from Mr. Brooke, agent for periodicals, &c., of Graham's Magazine, December number, with several fine engravings. The Ghost-seer, a translation from the German of Schiller, and last, not least, No. 5 of the Junius Tracts, upon the subject of Political Abolition.

Coroner's Inquest.—The body of a male mulatto infant was found yesterday afternoon in a ditch on 11th street, near Carusi's Saloon; the physicians were of opinion that it had not been dead over twenty-four hours. When found, a cord was tied very tightly about the neck, which indicated that it came to its death by the hands of an unnatural mother. An inquest was held over the body by T. Woodward, Esq., Coroner. Verdict that it came to its death by the hands of some person or persons unknown to the jury.

National Theatre.—Mr. Jenkins' Benefit.—It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that the manager has effected a re-engagement with the Virginia Minstrels for three nights more, (Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday) evenings.

This evening Mr. Jenkins puts forth a card for a benefit, and we bespeak for him a bumper. He will be assisted by that imitable nigger Sandford, and also by Messrs. Myers and Johnson. We have been requested to state that the President of the United States, Colonel R. M. Johnson, and Commodore Elliott, will visit the theatre this evening, by invitation.
